

The following article is from Mekey Parrott at RDM's Office and is a story of accomplishments her children, despite obstacles that autism presented, have achieved.

Emily, 18, graduated May 22 from Central Carolina Community College. Having passed national and state boards, she will be a registered veterinary technician. On May 7, she was the only graduate to be awarded Outstanding Student in Vet Med Tech.

Jermiah graduated on June 12 from North Moore High School, despite teachers' expectations that he would achieve only a special diploma. Exceeding expectations, he is graduating with a regular diploma and has plans to attend Randolph Community College to study photography. Jermiah is also the recipient of the Duff Quest Scholarship.
